Subject: Minutes from the Network meeting of May 10, 2018

Minutes:

Special Note: Thank you again to all who donated breakfast foods/coffee for the meeting! Your generosity is greatly appreciated! SR

Next Meeting: The next meeting of the New Jersey WasteWise Business Network will take place on Thursday, November 1, 2018 in Hamilton, NJ.

Welcome –Network Chair Steve Rinaldi (Steven.Rinaldi@dep.nj.gov) welcomed everyone and explained that the New Jersey WasteWise Business Network is the New Jersey chapter of the USEPA’s national WasteWise program, which is a program designed to help businesses and other organizations learn how waste reduction, recycling and recycled product procurement not only help the environment, but also their bottom line. Steve mentioned that there will be a Sustainability Speaker Series meeting at the Campbell Soup Company in Camden on the morning of June 19. The focus of the meeting will be food waste. If you would like to learn more about this event, please contact Gina Gambacorto of the NJDEP, Bureau of Energy and Sustainability at Gina.Gambacorto@dep.nj.gov. In addition, Steve mentioned that the Department will be sending out the 2018 NJDEP recycling awards application sometime soon. The awards not only recognize excellence in various recycling categories, but also excellence in source reduction, resource management and sustainability. Award winners are honored at the Association of New Jersey Recyclers annual recycling symposium in October,

Update on the Chinese Recyclable Commodities Import Restrictions – Steve Changaris, Chapter Director, National Waste & Recycling Association – NJ Chapter - schangaris@wasterecycling.org – Mr. Changaris provided the latest information on China’s environmental initiatives, which have negatively affected worldwide recycling markets. Key provisions noted were the .5% contaminant threshold on loads of recyclables and China’s ban on the receipt of mixed paper and plastics. In addition, China’s recent decision to suspend the receipt of all recyclable materials for one month was also discussed. Mr. Changaris stated that the current situation will affect recycling operations for years to come. Reducing contaminants in loads of recyclables and improving the processing operations of recycling centers were noted as two key strategies that will help make recycling more sustainable. Mr. Changaris also stated that it is essential that we all continue to educate people about the importance of keeping the recycling stream free of contaminants. Using Social Media to Promote Your Recycling Program –Sara Verrillo, Digital Media Specialist, Atlantic County Utilities Authority - sverrillo@acua.com – Ms. Verrillo noted that social media is a great form of communication since these platforms are used by so many people. Social media can be used as a public relations tool and to highlight your brand and leadership on various issues. Facebook was mentioned as the most popular site (79% of adult Americans have a Facebook account) to utilize to get your message out. Twitter was also noted as a popular way to connect with staff, constituents, reporters and industry peers. Ms. Verrillo stated that Instagram and Snapchat were especially good ways to reach younger audiences. LinkedIn was mentioned as a tool that helps connect people with their peers. Ms. Verrillo stated that it is helpful to have a creative and computer savvy person dedicated to overseeing your social media campaign. Photos and videos are also key elements in any social media campaign and help get the message out. Ms. Verrillo stated that it is important to be relevant to your community, try new things and use previously created content when available. (PowerPoint to be available at www.anjr.com)

The Big Sweep Office Supply Reuse Program – Laurene O’Donnell, Pioneers – A Volunteer Network, Chapter 99 - lari.odonnell1@gmail.com - Ms. O’Donnell initiated what would be called “The Big Sweep” in order to save surplus office supplies, books, office furniture and more resulting from office reconfiguration from the dumpster and instead donating these supplies to non-profit organizations in need of these items. Ms. O’Donnell indicated that her group of volunteers scoured 20 floors, going office to office - many with 35+ years accumulation of supplies. They collected supplies from 5200+ desks, 9500+ file cabinets, libraries, and storage facilities. This reuse/waste reduction endeavor was a volunteer effort and resulted in 175+ tons of material being saved from the landfill. The surplus supplies were donated to over 240 non-profit organizations in the United States and abroad. (PowerPoint to be available at www.anjr.com)

Recycling Electronics from the Business Sector...What Can Be Recycled...How is it Recycled? - Jim Entwistle, President, Newtech Recycling, Inc. - jim@newtechrecycling.com – Mr. Entwistle is the President/Owner of Newtech Recycling in Somerset County. The company recycles a wide variety of electronic waste (e-waste) items. Mr. Entwistle discussed the various permits and certifications associated with electronic recyclers – Class D approval from the NJDEP, R2, ISO 14001, OHSAS 18001, CHWMEG and NAID. He also stated that it was important to look for a vendor that is capable of handling logistical planning, corporate cleanouts and on-site hard drive shredding. In addition, it was noted that e-waste recyclers should be able to ensure data destruction and provide customers with a Certificate of Recycling. Mr. Entwistle also noted that it is important to make sure that your e-waste vendor is fully insured. He also mentioned that tours of the Newtech facility can be arranged and that there is an online video of the e-waste recycling process on the company website at www.newtechrecycling.com. Raritan Valley Community College’s Award-Winning Waste Reduction, Recycling and Sustainability Programs – Sue Dorward, Sustainability and Energy Coordinator, and Deidre Supple, Raritan Valley Community College - Susan.Dorward@raritanval.edu – Recycling is well established at Raritan Valley Community College (RVCC). The school provides recycling bins throughout the campus and conducts student-led waste audits through its Environmental Science and Sustainability class. The students create posters that promote the campus recycling program and provide recommendations for program improvement. RVCC has instituted a “bin-buddy” system for office recyclables and waste. This means that each office gets a 28-quart recycling container with a 3-quart mini-garbage can attached to it. Ms. Dorward explained that the school has a communication plan on how to get the word out about recycling. This includes the use of How-To signs, training sessions for staff, and campus wide emails, among other strategies. Ms. Dorward mentioned that the school hopes to initiate waste reduction programs that will reduce plastic bottle and disposable cutlery utilization on the campus. Another topic discussed was the school’s efforts to “green” their outdoor events so that they generate less waste. (PowerPoint to be available at www.anjr.com)
